

New Choice Panel Range

Entrotec's new choice range of external call panels brings together traditional industry knowledge with a modern approach.

The choice range offers the specifier flexibility and attractive designs at the highest spec level.

Manufactured from top performance components and materials the choice range is designed to allow developers of modern residential properties to specify at the planning stage, a high quality intercom solution at excellent value.

With a weather resistant external call panel manufactured from high grade marine stainless steel combined with smooth styling, peace of mind that the choice panel shall endure the rigors of use whilst not looking out of place on high class residential blocks.

With crystal clear communications the choice call panels are complimented with a range of internal audio or video apartment stations to allow all round quality without compromise.